WildSafeBC Photographer Code of Conduct

Nature comes first. Do not contribute to human habituation or interfere with the animal's natural behaviour. Do not use calls to draw in wildlife. Avoid crowding the subject and use a long lens to maintain your distance.

Research your subject so as not to interfere with wildlife's routine needs such as feeding and raising young.

Be respectful of private property. Tread lightly and avoid damaging fragile ecosystems. Stay on trails if unsure.

Do not stop on highways or roads where speeds exceed 60km/hr unless there is an approved pullout. This can be unsafe for fellow motorists or for wildlife if they cross traffic.

Do not approach dangerous wildlife such as bears, cougars or wolves. If the animal is aware of your presence, it is better to leave the area slowly or seek the shelter of a structure or vehicle.

Never feed or bait wildlife to obtain a photo. This includes the use of salt which may have the unintentional consequence of spreading disease.
